A heated debate

Its common knowledge that almost all of the largest corporations in the world outsource their customer service, manufacturing and R&D to domiciles all over the globe. Just how far reaching is this? Is this trend destroying our nation or fueling our economy?

Entrepreneurs need help NOW!

There are thousands of 'one man shows' all across the nation that are struggling to make a living. These businesses could flourish with full time help, but small business owners either don't think they can afford it or lack the knowledge to tap into the inexpensive and efficient labor pools of the world.

$6 an hour employees?

Not only can you find $6 an hour employees overseas, you can find highly skilled, highly educated individuals, that are very eager to please. When hiring overseas you can expect low attrition and if you know what they are doing can find independent thinkers who are dependable, efficient and have a great attitude.

You must have a global strategy.

Big companies run their companies all over the world, manufacturing where they pay the least and have most efficiency. Their phones are picked up wherever it makes the most sense. They hire the best and brightest worldwide and they thrive. The small business person must adopt a global perspective or they will wake up one morning to find that they have been defeated. This is about innovation and innovation has always been the 'American way.'
